

Hi my name is Mason Gedanken. I learned a lot taking Cartography this semester. I had a rough start to the course, but pushed through the end the best I could. I realized that Geospatial studies, is not going to be my specialty, but I do know how to use the basics if needed. I started out the course of the semester not trying as hard as I could have, but around early April, I realized I needed to work harder and decided to give it my best in the end. Since this is one of my first upper division courses, I didn't know how much work I would encounter, and it was more than I expected. I will use this course as a learning experience for future courses I take. For further contact, email me at msg261@humboldt.edu.
